Amy Cole is materialistic, egotistical and awfully sexy. These are traits that will soon get her in trouble especially when Kato Hayashi, her neighbor, tries convincing her that he can make her happy as her lover. After repeated trial and error, he surprises her with a custom gift and suddenly she can't refuse the gift or him. And when her secret lover Bryson, Kato's best friend, visits her she finds she's demanding gifts from him. Disappointed, she asks him to leave only to later realize that the boys have a secret of their own. She's left questioning her true motives as feelings for the boys start to emerge, leaving her confused but titillated. She's an exhibitionist with an obsession for material things, and two gorgeous men want her to be their lover. Can she redeem herself by erasing her greedy side? Can making them one happy trio be enough to satisfy them all?
