This is not a book. It isn't even a novella, or a short story, because there is no ending. It's just a scene I wrote, approximately 6000 words, that I wanted to share with my readers. It contains female/female sexual relations. "Her breath tickles my face. I can smell her cherry lip-gloss and freckles. Yes, I know you can't really smell freckles – but they're there, just as much of a trigger for her presence as is her wild, curly blonde hair, or her gum that she repeatedly smacks against the roof of her mouth. Darcy without gum or freckles is like the ocean with any water. They just belong together." Blue loves Darcy. Darcy loves the wicked. Enjoy this scene between the two for free! <http://shellypratt.net>
