The author of Melting the Millionaire's Heart gives readers a front-row seat to her new Hard Hitters baseball series. First up at bat: a hotshot pitcher and a PR pro battle it out on and off the field... Small-town Indiana tomboy Sarah Dudley grew up living and breathing baseball, since her father owned the minor league Plainview Thrashers. A talented player herself, she idolized her brother's best friend: Tom Cord, a pitcher with a wicked fastball and an even more wicked reputation. Now, Sarah is the Thrashers' VP of public relations, and Tom—a star in the major leagues—has been assigned to the club while rehabbing from surgery.

It's Sarah's job to keep the hard-throwing, hard-living star out of trouble. But when she gets a glimpse of the man behind the bad-boy image, they start to generate more heat than an inside fastball...
